

THE CANNIBALS AND THE MISSIONARIES

On one bank of a river there are three cannibals and three missionaries wishing to cross a river.

There is one boat that can hold one or two people.

If the number of cannibals is ever greater than the number of missionaries (either on the bank or in the boat) then the missionary will get eaten.

How can the boat be used to safely carry all people across to the other bank?

